

Leading from the Centre 2.0

Strengthen your school's centre leadership

Build capacity for change, improvement and collective leadership practice

School leadership teams have a powerful impact on the quality of teaching, learning and student outcomes. When they are effectively distributed, schools can achieve big results. If the leadership is too top heavy, things can soon go awry...

That's why middle leaders are central to the success of any school. Investing in their development builds capacity for change, improvement and collective leadership practice. It also strengthens the link between the senior executive and teachers in the classroom.

Leading from the Centre 2.0 is a development program tailored to the unique situation of your school. The refreshed program consists of a series of interactive and practical modules grounded in the latest research.

Participants engage with a range of frameworks to explore current practice and challenge the status quo. Why do you do what you do? How can school leaders work together more effectively? And how can they better support middle leaders?

Independent Schools Victoria's experienced School Improvement Team will work with school leadership to unpack the skills and strategies to leverage change and innovation and turn your school's vision into reality.

- Expand the capacity and cohesion of middle leaders and your school's leadership.
- Gain clarity of the role of individual middle leaders, and their roles as team members.
- Empower team leaders as critical conduits between senior leaders and staff.
- Enhance the confidence of your leaders with a clear understanding of their role in school improvement.
- Define expectations and strategies to enable leadership teams to respond effectively and efficiently to the challenges of school life.
